Somewhere out there, is doom.

Nearly every day Earth is approached by an asteroid or two. Within the next week there are 40 massive chunks of space crud screaming silently through space that will come close enough to our planet to NASA to keep a watchful eye on their trajectory.

Just in case we need to evacuate.

127,633,327 km

distance from Earth of the closest asteroid worth tracking. They say it's going to miss us by 7,068,027 km. Is that suppose to make me feel better? It doesn't.

246

meters across of the smallest one. The biggest is 3161 meters. It's name is agardnerd0 and I'm pretty sure it's going to kill us all.

3/40

come close enough to be classified as hazardous.

Plug n’ Play

A rich, but simple, plugin system

- Elements that use existing functionality in new ways, without new code
- Rendering fundtions that encourage copy-paste development
- Data sources that fetch all new information, and function that manipulate it.
- Pluggable user interfaces that make it all easy to use.

On the horizon

What lies ahead?

- Beta release as part of the default distribution
- Grouping of elements for faster workpad reation
- Templated workpads and elements for content generation and re-use
- Geo elements and location aware functions
- Fully embeddable workpads
